

All you end up with is the song. The heart of the matter.

An idea, a melody, a couple of chords, a path that leads you there. Whether you come up with a whole orchestra or a simple 3-chord acoustic guitar piece of music. It can take you by storm. It can leave you breathless, maybe devastated or full of hope. It can shatter your world and build it up at the same time. In the same very second.

All you end up with is the song. The heart of the matter.

I'm a singer / songwriter paying tribute to the old craft of songwriting blended with modern sounds and a vast pop appeal.
